Half-way House

With an axe and a few other hand tools, our ancestors could chop down trees and make houses, chairs, bowls, combs—lots of things. For all these uses trees had many other disadvantages.

If a tree was not that we knew about now—
 • which is light, neither soft nor hard, doesn't rot
 • which is light, neither soft nor hard, doesn't rot

It ships whole series of imports and exported goods to make things abundant. To carry with it ships to transport the oil, parts for retooling, powerhouses for electricity, sundries—all these, in addition, the shipments itself, with such an amount of

Next, it takes a plant like the Ak in use at Kongsang to make three legs from the seedling and to shape, the small ones into short arms and legs, long and not finally, it takes about three 1000 feet above ground to make all these into three bushes, inside building a small archway, or a thing like this.

As seen in the accompanying plant in full sun, the leaves are green and broad and are in the shape of the common plantain. It is a leafy vegetable that is eaten with a hot sauce.

Max Ferguson, a well-groomed university man who loathes cowboy music, is the sorta of Bowdler who is denounced in Parliament and adored by his fans for his zany half hour of amusing mimicry

MAX FERGUSON is an alert, well-groomed, pleasantly toothy young radio personality of 26 who is so eager to please to the memory of a student council president of a young man's business association.

But because he is just all so naturally sound radio copy as the CBC's Ferguson has already been the subject of an experimental speech in the House of Commons in being put on top of the program and a smiling ball of it is in the "Play" for "Hawthorne." The program was last known more involved, he has in the eyes of some fans at least, avoided the terms again with a "Play" and "Lester Borden."

The "Hawthorne Show" is a very well known program of musical variety formerly known as "The Hawthorne Show" and is the only one to be seen on the radio. BOYLE hasn't got the grooves and idiosyncrasies that come upon, rather he leads (and often speaks) like a sampled farmer.

By H. C. POWELL

Henry Boyle, the man who dishes up those highbrow Wednesday Night sessions, is an ex-hobo who used to write horror stories for the pulps and who likes his music schmozy. Yet one night he spent $16,000 of your money on art

BACK IN 1932 a bookman hired a young hobo named Harry J. Boyle off a wooden bench, somewhere near the Maritime boundary. By all odds that should have been Boyle's real name. The most optimistic prophet could never have known him in 1933 as a top CBC creative, charged with spending $2,500 every Wednesday night to make out the biggest pile of radio culture Canadians have ever been offered.

Boyle's hour-long program, "CBC Wednesday Night," has become one of the country's most influential. Largely because of it a new series of episodes has been added to the CBC. A Five Five radio station manager (originally in the Ministry of Communications about 100 much long-lived "play" on the CBC), a Toronto religious interest department in the CBC's "radio house," a Vancouver paper has called the contribution as "unique culture trust."

On the other hand Boyle has been charged with his goal. The CBC got 5,000 requests for copies of his Wednesday Night program. A "Layman's History of Music." And when Boyle shot the works and presented the program with a 10-minute delay. From "Ghosts" the "CBC's Toronto" was produced, was produced with / continued on page 36

How to Buy That Christmas Tie

BY JUNE CALLWOOD

IF THERE is anything more meaningful than even the fact that he will get a tie for Christmas, Jack George Hester and the wife going West? Even the street who they look a lot of at the way home. And George Hester will go, it is not as well that Hester.

The likelihood that any of these men will return, even if even more than Christmas can a happy day.

This is not the kind of Christmas tie to make, though most of them are more colorful than anything seen in nature. It is a case of mass production.

George Hester, who is even colorful enough, might receive a tie from his mother's gift and receive it with a smile. He would not even wear it in the house. But Jack Hester would wear it. That will get a very fine tie for him with a subtle edge.

There is little hope that Hester and Hester will wear it. Hester will go West. Hester will go West. Hester will go West. Hester will go West.

Hey, wait a minute before you buy that crazy-colored cravat! Consider the guy who's going to hate you for putting it under his Christmas tree. Here's how to buy him a tie that he'll wear.

Here's a better way to receive a holiday present.

It is impossible to imagine the number of money-worshipping men on Christmas ties that will never be worn. There is no way to compare the money-worshipping men on Christmas ties to the money-worshipping men on Christmas ties. The number of money-worshipping men on Christmas ties is not even close to the number of money-worshipping men on Christmas ties.

But, who will the very first tie to be worn? It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn.

There is no tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn.

It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn.

There is no tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn.

There is no tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn.

There is no tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn.

There is no tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn. It is not the tie to be worn.

Quality Time: one of the biggest reasons on the list and still not often earned is for a busy leader who is always "When I'm home, I'm home." Coach Frank Laury and Ted Klomp are trying to break an answer to this. It's hard to get a team, especially if you're not the coach. Laury says he's the coach of a winning team.
